

The Emerging Wellness Professional Award

This innovative award recognizes the work and impact of newcomers to the wellness industry.

Are you an innovative leader showing the industry new trends, leadership, and skills for innovation? To qualify, applicants must:

- Have an degree in a health and wellness-related concentration, or
- Have an undergraduate degree (any concentration) AND a high-level certification in a wellness-related area (e.g. National Board Certified Health & Wellness Coach, etc.)
- Less than five years of experience in roles including (but not limited to):
 - Higher Education (Instructor, Research, Program Director, etc.)
 - Human Resources: Workplace Wellness
 - Employee Wellness Coordinator
 - Health & Wellness Coordinator
 - Health Promotion
 - Public Health
 - Healthcare
 - Other relevant experience in the wellness industry

About the Emerging Wellness Professionals (EWP) Task Force:

The Emerging Wellness Professionals Task Force (EWP) of the National Wellness Institute seeks to motivate and sustain emerging professionals to become active members of the organization; and support NWI's initiatives by engagement, education, and empowerment opportunities for the wellness leaders of tomorrow.

The EWP honoree will receive:

- An appointment to Chair of the EWP Task Force
- Registration to the 2022 National Wellness Conference
- A Complimentary NWI Individual Membership

Serving on the EWP Task Force will entail:

- Providing leadership to motivate emerging professionals to become active members of the organization.
- Supporting NWI's initiatives through ongoing engagement, education and empowerment opportunities.
- Encouraging leadership development among emerging professionals and mentoring the succeeding awardee.
- Bringing innovative and creative approaches to collaborate within the Emerging Wellness Professionals Task Force, NWI, and other partners to enhance opportunities for emerging wellness professionals.

Are you or do you know an Emerging Wellness Professional?

Learn More, Apply, or Nominate Today >>

Deadline to submit all nominations and applications is May 24, 2022.

Email questions to EWP@NationalWellness.org